

“Mindfulness is awareness that arises through paying attention, on purpose, in the present moment, non-judgmentally. It’s about knowing what is on your mind.”

~Jon Kabat-Zinn, creator of Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction

The statistics are staggering. The number of people suffering from stress-related issues is fast approaching 100%. According to the American Psychological Association reports, 8 out of 10 people are experiencing some form of physical and/or emotional issues related to stress.

Mindfulness is a powerful, scientifically proven resource for breaking free from harmful emotional ruts and mindless habits in order to live with full awareness and greater freedom.

We can only change that which we are first aware of.

Mindfulness is a life preserver of resilience that increases our ability to recognize our internal experience of mind, body, and thought. This recognition can lead to greater clarity of thought, less chaos in our day-to-day lives, and allows us to learn to direct where we place our focus and attention.

Exploring concepts such as: acceptance, patience, non-judging, non-striving, trust, letting go/letting be, gratitude and generosity can lead to self-discovery, personal growth, and inner healing.

Mindfulness is a practice in ‘being’ rather than one more thing that needs doing.

Individual sessions can be modified to address unique needs and includes hand-outs, resources, and on-going support.

MINDFUL CO-PARENTING

The 7-week Mindful Co-Parenting class is designed for parents who have separated, yet intend to parent their children together. The private video conference allows parents to attend separately, together.

The class will assist with the development of a Co-Parenting Plan and will offer concrete support for relationship development, positive communication, and emotional healing.

- Foundational Agreements
- Personality & Emotions
- From a Child’s Perspective
- Relationship Building
- Timesharing
- Developing a Co-Parenting Plan
- Focusing Forward

MINDFUL NURTURING PARENTING

The 8-week Mindful Nurturing Parenting course is offered throughout the year via private video conferencing, making it accessible and easy for parents to attend.

Mindful Nurturing Parenting classes are appropriate for everyone—parents, foster parents, grandparents, teachers, CASA volunteers, and anyone wanting to interact with children more mindfully and with less stress.

Classes offer multimedia presentations, resource materials, and open discussions to provide support, encouragement and guidance.

Each 8-week course includes elements of Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction. The classes are a confidential, safe place to share challenges and learn from the experiences of others.
